

Ordering and asking

A I'll have roast beef

1 Put the sentences in order.

'Yes, sir. Over here, by the window.'
'Have you got a table for two?'

'How would you like your steak?'
'Oh, all right, then. I'll have a rump steak.'
'I'll start with soup, please, and then I'll have roast beef.'
'I'm sorry, madam, there's no more roast beef.'
'Rare, please.'

'Vegetables, sir?'
'Chicken for me, please.'
'A few mushrooms and a green salad, please.'
'And for you, sir?'

'Certainly, madam.'
'Could I have a lager, please?'
'Would you like something to drink?'
'I'll have a lager too. And could you bring me some water?'

'A bit tough. The vegetables are nice.'
'Not too bad. What about your steak?'
'How's the chicken?'

'Is everything all right?'
'Very good.'
'Oh yes, excellent, thank you.'

'Could you bring us the bill, please?'
'No, sir.'
'Can I give you a little more coffee?'
'No, thank you.' 'Yes, please.'
'Is service included?'
